ELEMENTS OF FICTION

December 30, 2013

ScOLa Building

The workshop entitled “Elements of Fiction” was divided into three parts. First, a lecture on fictional elements such as plot, setting, character, theme, conflict, and point of view was delivered. Following this, students were provided with a short passage narrated from different points of view. Hence, students read the three versions of the same story and explored the functions of point of view in a fictional work. Finally, students were asked to form groups and each group was
